Built the way hardware is built. Not the way fashion usually is.

Every strap starts as raw hide, not a print file. The spot pattern is the animal's, not a repeat. We cut around the flaws instead of hiding them — which is why no two belts leave the shop looking the same.

The buckle is the part people touch the most, so it's the part we obsess over: solid cast, not stamped, finished to sit flush against the leather with zero play.
